FOR THE LOVE OF THE GAME (#63222)

The team has just won a game and now they are going to be in the Finals for the State Championship. The coach buys them hats that say 25-0, but the kids are not excited because they have only played 24 games. They think it would be too cocky to wear those hats, plus they are nervous about the game. Coach tries to loosen them up, but they will not listen. The next day in practice, the team isn't playing well. They are blaming one another for mistakes and are not relaxed. Coach once again tries to get them to relax and just play the game, but there is too much pressure surrounding the Championship. So, Coach takes them out to his old playground to play with some kids. At first, the team doesn't understand why they are playing with kids, but later they really get into the game. By the end of the day, they are playing great and having fun. At the Championship game, the first half is horrible. They are feeling the pressure and playing poorly. During halftime, Coach tells them to stop playing scared. He reminds them of how relaxed they were playing in the playground. The team realizes they can play better if they don't worry about this being the last game. They end up winning the game after they relax and have fun. They are now State Champions!

HITTING ON A GUY (#63162)

Sui takes Jane on a blind date, where Jane meets a new guy named Ralph. Jane tries to give him a hard time but Ralph can hang with her and nothing she says intimidates him. Soon they are enjoying each other and Jane decides to go out with him again. However, when she comes in from the date, she is distraught, disheveled, and bruised. The family thinks Ralph might have abused her, but when Neal, Ben, and Cray locate him, they find that Jane abused Ralph. Not long after, Jane tells the family that Ralph was the name of her last foster father who beat her up after being nice to her. When she was with Ralph, her date, she had a flashback to her foster father and attacked Ralph. When she sees Ralph again, he tells her that if she continues to mix up the good people with the bad people she is going to run out of people who care. Jane decides to go back to her family for support and to get the psychological help her parents offered her.

KODAK MOMENT (#63120)

Chris gets a surprise kiss from a girl on the street. It turns out that she is a princess from England who was running from a photographer. She ran away so quickly that she left her purse behind. When Chris goes to her hotel to return the purse, Jessica, the princess, asks him to take her out for American food. Chris takes her to the Diner where Jessica explains that being a princess deprives her of privacy, therefore she cherishes it. Due to a misunderstanding with Jessica, Chris lets Al and El-Train have her hotel room number, and the boys plan to sneak in and take a photo for the tabloids. However, Jessica comes to see Chris at school and explains that the boy he saw her with was an ex-boyfriend that she doesn't want to see anymore. She and Chris set up another date; but Chris realizes he has to stop Al and El Train. Chris gets to the hotel room early, to get Jessica out of the hotel, but El Train comes in dressed as a room service waiter. As soon as Jessica comes out of the bathroom, Al jumps out from the cart and begins snapping pictures. Chris throws him out, but Jessica knows that Al is Chris' friend and throws him out for not respecting her privacy. Later that night, Chris manages to get the film from Al. He takes the roll of film back to Jessica to prove that he respects her privacy. When he arrives at the hotel, Jessica is leaving to go back to England. She forgives Chris for everything and they promise to remain friends.

STATE OF EMERGENCY (#63953)

Ashley's mother comes home to find Ashley, Dylan, and Jermaine lying on Ashley's bed. Although they were just looking at Ashley's star painted ceiling, Ashley's mom was surprised and really upset. She says Ashley is not allowed to have boys in the house when she is not there, a new rule Ashley finds undeserved. At school, Dylan and Jermaine feel badly about getting Ashley in trouble. Meanwhile, Ashley's mom pages her several times throughout the day. Ashley feels burdened by her mother's over protectiveness. The boys suggest she speak with Mr. Pena for some guidance on what to do. Later, because of a rainstorm, the power goes out in the library, so Ashley, Jermaine, and Dylan go to Ashley's house to work on the project. The storm gets worse, so Dylan asks his brother to come pick up him and Jermaine. Mike shows up with two other guys, who make themselves at home. Just as something breaks, Ashley's mom comes home to find a house full of guys and gets really angry. This crisis leads them to back to Mr. Pena. At the counseling office, Ashley and her mom express their respective concerns that Ashley feels her mom is being too protective and Ashley's mom indicates she is worried about losing her daughter to outside influences. They come to a compromise. Dylan and Jermaine also apologize to Ashley's mom, who invites them to dinner so she can get to know them better and build trust.

KEEP IT ON THE DOWNLOAD (#63121)

Chris and Jamal have a small competition going with rival DJs at Washington Prep. They exchange silly pranks back and forth until Ms. Noble catches Chris and Jamal stealing the Washington Prep's radio call numbers. She warns them that they let the competition get out of control, so they are forced off of the air. When Malik and Adam come to claim their sign, they say they are going to do an on-air funeral for Chris and Jamal's show. The boys can't let this happen so they break into Adam and Malik's station to mess things up. They end up cutting a wire, which shorts out their amp. The next day, Ms. Noble asks the boys whether they know anything about the break-in, and they say no. Chris and Jamal feel badly about the damage they have done, so they buy another amp and sneak back to the station to replace it. A security guard catches them in the act, and notifies the principal of Washington Prep and Ms. Noble of the problem. Ms. Noble is truly disappointed in the boys. They apologize saying they know they did something wrong, but were afraid to come forward, so they were trying to fix it. As a punishment, Adam and Malik are allowed to do their show from the Manny High station, until their station is completely fixed.

PLAYER AS LANGUAGE TUTOR

Nowitzki teaches Summer every day German phrases. He is from Germany. While Dirk's spoken English is almost perfect, Nowitzki finds it easier to read in German. His family and friends keep him supplied with new German reading material when they come to visit him in Dallas.

PLAYER AS SCHOOL MENTOR AND BOOSTER

Camby returns to PS 196 after his first visit in September. He accompanied students on a shopping trip because they won an essay contest. The students asked Camby questions about his age and if he always wanted to be a basketball player when he grew up. The students also asked why he selected their essays. Camby commented on their grammar, punctuation, and penmanship, in addition to their ideas.

PLAYERS AND YOUTH MOVEMENT

The Clippers acquired four players who average 20 years of age. Two of the players grew up together in Chicago and the other two had been roommates during the summer prior to the draft. These young players make the Clippers faster and more athletic. This group will be a force to be reckoned with if they get to work together for a period of time.

PLAYER AND LITERACY

THAT 60'S SHOW (#63213)

School uniforms are instituted at Deering High because the school board believes more discipline is created when kids are dressed alike. The kids hate the idea and complain to no avail. A respected teacher describes how protests can create social change and encourages them to organize protests if the issue of uniforms is important to them. They organize a protest, dressed in 60's clothes. Their teacher informs them that the school board conceded, but in the process he was fired by the school board because he inspired the kids to protest. The kids organize new protests, including a petition to reinstate the teacher. The school board doesn't budge, so the basketball team realizes the thing to do is stage a sit-in at the upcoming televised game. Even though the coach implores them to play, Julie and Silk continue the protest. In the meantime Mary Beth and Kristy find a letter from the school board that shows Mr. McHenry was fired because of age discrimination. They publicly expose the school board and find that by standing up for their principles, they can be successful in creating important policy changes.

ROOTS (#63175)

Cray has been assigned a family tree project, but he doesn't know anything about his birth family. Karen and Dave tell him that his records were sealed when he was adopted so they don't know about his family. Neal is helping Cray with the project and finds Cray's birth certificate. The kids warn him there might be problems when he finds out about his biological family, but Cray is determined to know his roots. Neal's searching results in locating Cray's grandfather, who agrees to meet Cray at the Warehouse. Cray asks Neal to come with him because he is scared of rejection. At the Warehouse, Cray meets Harold Jenkins, his grandfather, who just happens to be black. Cray is shocked and runs away. Later, Neal goes to talk with Cray about the meeting. Cray says he ran away because he didn't know he was black. When Karen and Dave come back from their trip the kids tell them about Cray's meeting. They are disappointed that he ran away from his grandfather. They also remind him that this may be the last link to his biological family and he may not want to turn his back on that. Cray invites his grandfather over for dinner with everyone. Cray's grandfather tells Cray about his parents and says he was put up for adoption when they died. Cray also learns the specifics of his racial mixture. The family shares a wonderful meal together and Cray's grandfather expresses his joy at seeing his multi-racial grandson being raised in such a racially diverse and loving family group.

THE USERS (#63114)

It's time for midterms and Chris and Jamal haven't been studying. Before their radio show they meet Jasper, the new radio technician and a straight-A student. They realize that Jasper could help them study for their tests. In return, Chris and Jamal agree to let him hang out in the studio. Jasper turns out to be totally obnoxious, constantly interrupting the "Chris and Jamal" show, but the boys refrain from telling him to stop because they don't want to lose their tutor. Before long, Jasper thinks they are good friends and he's a part of their show. Later, Ms. Noble tells Chris and Jamal she has recommended them for internships with the famous New York Disk Jockey, "JoJo". In order to keep Jasper from ruining their chances, Chris and Jamal send him on a fake errand to get him out of the studio. However, Jasper comes back during the audition, and realizes that his new "friends" have tricked him. He tells Chris and Jamal just how disappointed and hurt he is. Chris and Jamal realize that they were simply using Jasper and weren't being very good friends to him. They later apologize to Jasper for their behavior and make an arrangement with "JoJo" to get Jasper an internship too.

THE TUTOR (#63957)

Ashley has agreed to help Dylan study for his history test. She comes up with a scheme to help him remember the facts; he connects the information he needs to learn with sports facts he already knows. At test time, Dylan still doesn't do well because reading, comprehending and answering the questions is too overwhelming. He avoids Ashley and everyone else because he knows he failed the test. Jermaine tries to cheer him up, but Dylan is questioning what he is going to do in life. Jermaine says, "we can't all be good at everything" and suggests Dylan only cares because Ashley is involved with his studies. Later Jermaine tells Ashley to leave Dylan alone because she cannot change Dylan into someone he is not. Ashley points out that she is only trying to help Dylan do better in class. Mike tries to talk to Dylan also, but Dylan blows him off. Dylan says this is the best he can do. Ashley and Mike are worried about Dylan so they talk to Mr. Pena. Dylan sees them talking and gets mad. The next day, Dylan's father explains that he wants more than carpentry for his son. Dylan has to find what he likes to do. Mr. Pena brings a psychologist to meet with Dylan and his parents. They want to test Dylan for dyslexia. This may explain Dylan's problems in school. After the testing, Dylan apologizes to Ashley and thanks her for going to Mr. Pena with Mike. At least now he has a possible explanation for why he has problems showing his knowledge through schoolwork.

PRESUMED INNOCENT (#63115)

Jamal begins to have problems with Louis, a Manny High student who has a shaved head and tattoos. He tells the gang that Louis is a skinhead and a racist. During a confrontation in Law class, Louis calls Jamal a "jerk." Later, when "jerk" is spray painted on his locker, Jamal accuses Louis of doing it and the two begin to fight. Ms. Noble breaks it up and explains that one of the great things about America is that everyone is presumed innocent until proven guilty and suggests that they hold a mock trial in Law class. Chris represents Jamal. Dawn and Cassidy represent Louis, and argue that it's unfair to accuse him just because of the way he looks. Dawn points out that Jamal just assumes Louis is a skinhead because his head is shaved and he has tattoos, but that Jamal doesn't have any proof. Jamal then produces pictures of Louis at a bus stop with a large group of "skinheads." When asked to explain, Louis says that they are all his friends and they all have cancer, just like him. Noble dismisses the case and Jamal acknowledges that he stereotyped Louis. Jamal feels very bad because he is so often a victim of stereotypes himself. Later, Chris and Jamal visit Louis in the hospital. They offer him an apology and ask if they can be friends with him.

A police officer approaches and asks Neal for the registration. He doesn't have it, so the officer arrests him saying that he fits a profile of gangsters in the area. He takes Ben in also. While in jail, Ben receives his one phone call, but Neal is denied a call. When Neal speaks up about his rights, the police threaten to keep him in jail longer. Later, Cray and Jane call the police to report the car missing. When they go down to the police station, they find out that the police are holding Neal and Ben. Joking at first, Cray wants to press charges, but when they find out that the officer is racist, they drop all charges. The police let Ben go, but hold Neal until they have thoroughly checked his record. When Cray, Jane, and Ben go home to tell Karen and Dave what has happened. The parents immediately go down to the jail to get Neal released. When they read the report against Neal, they realize that he was arrested before the car was reported stolen. They confront the officer about his behavior and he apologizes to Neal, saying he was only doing his job. Neal tells him that he should not have assumed anything based on a racial profile and that he plans on pressing charges for discrimination.

They take the test and figure they must have learned something while making the cheat sheets because they think they passed. Ms. Noble finds the cheat sheets, though, and accuses El-Train of cheating. When El-Train says he didn't cheat, Noble tells the class that she can't accept any of the tests because she doesn't know who cheated and she's going to make them all retake the test on Saturday. Unfortunately, the whole class believes that El-Train cheated and they are furious with him. At the test on Saturday, some of the boys in the class start a fight with El-Train and in order to keep their friend from getting into further trouble, Chris and Jamal admit to writing the cheat sheets. Ms. Noble gives Chris and Jamal Fs on the tests and tells them that they will have to go to summer school, even though they didn't use the cheat sheets. The boys then apologize to El-Train who accepts their apologies, but tells them that it will take some time before things are back to normal with them.

The first day of school finds Dylan Roberts and his friend, Jermaine Greene, getting acquainted with a new girl, Ashley Gordon. All three have to quickly get their plans in order - Dylan has to bring up his grades, Ashley has some adjustments to make that the boys can't quite figure out, and Jermaine wants to make the soccer team. The main person at school who helps them with these issues is Andre Pena, the counselor. Although Dylan initially meets Ashley because he knocks over her drink and ruins her blouse, they become friends at the mall where he has gone to purchase Cliff Notes, and she has purchased a replacement blouse. In the course of conversation about Dylan's problems with grades, they accidentally break a plate glass window in a sporting goods store. From the ordeal of this initial encounter, they become friends. Dylan finds out Ashley's is adjusting to her father's recent death and a major relocation. Ashley figures how much help Dylan needs with school and begins helping him with his test preparation. Dylan has to make a C on his first English test or he can't be on the team. When Dylan is told he earned a C+, he knows his spot on the soccer team is guaranteed. However, he also realizes that, with help and preparation, he can do better in school. Dylan tells his Coach that school should probably be his priority this year rather than struggling week by week to remain eligible for sports. Naomi's parents are out of town, so she is throwing a huge party. At the party, Jermaine and Dylan orient Ashley to the layout of the social cliques. There are the "thugs," "jocks," and "others." While Ashley and Dylan are dancing, one of the 'thugs' bumps into Ashley. He and Dylan exchange words, but he keeps going. On his way back, the guy bumps into Ashley again, seemingly on purpose. Dylan comes to Ashley's defense and almost gets into a fight with the thug. Later, a gun is fired and Dylan sees the same thug with the gun. The party disperses. Jermaine and Ashley are worried that someone is out there with a gun, but Dylan doesn't say anything. The next day, Dylan's parents find out about the shooting and tell Dylan the same gun was used to hurt a kid the next morning. Dylan tells Ashley and Jermaine he saw the guy, but doesn't say who it was.

Dylan later runs into the guy, who indirectly threatens him. The police are interviewing every student who was at the party. Ashley pressures Dylan by calling him a coward. He was going to fight, but now he is too afraid to do the right thing. While Dylan is waiting to talk to the police, he talks with the guy. ##### HAVOC (#63123)

The boys have formed a Jazz band called the 'Jazz Posse' and are going to play for a fundraiser at the school. Chris finds out that one of his favorite groups, the Smashing Skulls, is looking for a new guitarist. Chris goes to watch the auditions, but ends up auditioning. The band hires Chris as their new guitarist. When Chris tells Jamal, Al and El Train, they are upset because they need Chris in their band. Chris says that he can do both. Later that afternoon, Chris is late for Jazz Posse practice because the Smashing Skulls practice ran over. The boys give Chris an ultimatum, either he plays with them or Smashing Skulls. Chris chooses the Smashing Skulls because it has been a life long dream to play with a professional band. For Smashing Skulls, Chris has to change his name and look. He also has to be at the club for a jam session, during the fundraiser. Dawn comes to the club to talk to Chris after his practice. She says Chris is giving up a lot just to be in this band. Chris thinks the band is the most important thing right now. At the diner, Chris brings tickets to his first show. The boys feel like Chris is rubbing his success in their faces, and refuse to go. Cassidy is going to go to the show. At the concert, Chris finds out that the band has replaced him because the old guitarist has come back.. Cassidy sees the whole thing, but doesn't let Chris see her. The next day at school, Chris lies to his friends about the concert. Cassidy confronts him and tries to convince Chris to go back to the Jazz Posse, but Chris refuses. At the fundraiser, Chris shows up and asks to play with The Posse. He apologizes and says that he should have put his friends and The Jazz Posse first. They play for the fundraiser.

THE ENFORCER 0(#63212)

The team is coming up against a great opponent. The point guard, Carter, is expected to go to the NBA next year and Julie is going to have to go up against him. She needs to be stronger in order to face him. During the game, she does a great job defending Carter. During a crucial play, she blocks his shot and he falls to the ground with an injury. After the game, everyone congratulates her on a great game, but she is worried about Carter. Later, they find out that he is in the hospital with injuries which may end his career. Julie feels horrible that she has affected Carter's future chances of playing basketball. She thinks it is all her fault. The next day at practice, Julie is not being aggressive and not playing well. Coach explains that injuries are just a part of the game and that she didn't do anything wrong; however, he is forced to bench her. Julie goes to visit Carter in the hospital. She takes him magazines and talks about the accident. He says that she was just playing the game and doing what she was supposed to do. Julie feels better having heard that from Carter and returns to school for the next game. She tells Coach that she is ready to play, understanding that it wasn't her fault Carter got hurt and accidents are a part of the game.

GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER (#63164)

Neal has a girlfriend, Kate, whose father is a big-time lawyer in their community. The kids warn Neal that her father is not going to like him because of his humble beginnings and his past. Her father has Neal over for dinner and it becomes apparent that there is a huge class gulf between Neal and the father. The day after, Kate tells Sui that her dad forbade her from continuing to see Neal. Sui accidentally tells Neal who is outraged by the father's prejudice. He goes to talk to the father to confront him about his class prejudice. The father gets angry and Neal makes the case that he is an honor student with a great future and his past and humble beginnings doesn't matter. He reminds the father that his prejudice is preventing the dad from knowing the person inside. Kate sneaks to see Neal but he refuses to have her sneak over any more. The father finds out about this which indicates that Neal has a great deal of integrity. He comes over to apologize and acknowledges that Neal is a strong person of great principle.

[Educational Message: If you are confronted with unfair prejudice, stand up for yourself and speak the truth that counteracts the prejudice. In some cases, the person who is prejudiced will see how false their beliefs are and will begin to treat you fairly.]

MEET MR. HISTORY (#63122)

Chris and Jamal have to interview someone who witnessed a prominent moment in history, but they cannot seem to find anyone. Under pressure of the due date, Chris and Jamal make up a character, Jamal's great uncle Jesse, and all of the events he has seen. They get an A on the paper. Ms. Noble was so impressed by Jamal's great uncle Jesse that she recommends that he be interviewed on a local television program by one of her friends. The boys try to make excuses for why Uncle Jesse cannot attend, but Ms. Noble will not take no for an answer. So, the boys get El Train to dress up and pretend to be Uncle Jesse. Jamal, Chris and 'Uncle Jesse' are on the show the next day. El Train messes up a few things, but they get through the show. Afterwards, Ms. Noble comes to meet Uncle Jesse and pulls off El Train's beard. Ms. Noble is very upset with the boys for lying to her and to all of New York City. She demands that they go back to apologize to the television host. When the boys go back to apologize, they get put on the air. The host revealed them as frauds and asks if they had ever lied before. The boys tell on each other and bicker on camera. They did get a chance to apologize, but they were also humiliated on camera. They learned their lesson about trying to deceive others.

WITH THE BAND (#63961)

Ashley uses her lunch hour and free period to get some autographs for the boys. A local band with a big hit is going to make an appearance at the mall record store. Naomi invites herself along and tells Ashley she wants to be her friend. They talk about friendship and Ashley's need to have a girlfriend, not just be limited to Dylan and Jermaine. When they get to the mall, it turns out the band is actually performing during the lunch hour. Naomi uses her wiles to get a cut in line and the guy who gives her space decides he wants to take her to lunch. Even though Ashley has to get back to school, Naomi blows Ashley off and tells her to return by herself. The girls argue about "the meaning of friendship" and Ashley realizes Naomi is going to stay with the guy. Ashley leaves by herself and is immediately hit by a van. It turns out the band is in the van and they help her to the hospital. But no one at school knows what happened and she is "missing in action." Everybody is looking for her and when the boys realize that Naomi left her, they put the responsibility for not being able to locate Ashley squarely on her shoulders. It turns out that the band helped Ashley out and they even play for the kids as a "get well" favor to Ash. However, Naomi also knows she erred by being a "sometime" friend and not being responsible for knowing what happened to Ashley.

Cassidy and Chris meet at the diner for their break-up scene and Chris, surprisingly acts like the perfect boyfriend -- he dresses up, brings her flowers, and tells her that if he really was her boyfriend he would send her love notes and treat her with respect. Cassidy is impressed, but has Chris stick with the plan. They stage an argument, Jordan buys their act and immediately asks her to the dance. Later at school, Cassidy tries to make other plans with Jordan but he seems uninterested in her. Cassidy admits to Dawn that she's been so concerned with having a cute guy, she forgot about the importance of the actual relationship and compatibility. Chris may really be what she's been looking for in a boyfriend. Cassidy breaks up with Jordan to reach out to Chris who, in the meantime has found his own date for the dance. Not to worry, Dawn lets him know that Cassidy realizes she was using the wrong criteria in starting a relationship. He leaves the dance to find Cassidy at home. They talk about how much they like each other and, with a kiss, become girlfriend and boyfriend.

Coach is looking forward to the chance to catch up on old times. When Kate arrives, she and Coach have a happy reunion, expressing how much they missed each other. That day, Kate tells the girls that she has a secret she has been hiding from her father and is afraid to tell him. During a rebellious stage, Kate got pregnant and now has an eight-month-old son. As the girls are talking, Coach comes in with tickets to the Bears game in Chicago. Kate doesn't want to say no, but she is supposed to pick Mickey up from her cousin's house in an hour. Mary Beth, Julie, and Christy volunteer to baby-sit while Kate and Coach go to Chicago. Later that day, it begins to snow and the roads aren't clear enough to drive, so Kate and Coach have to stay overnight. The girls agree to continue watching the baby, even though they are not happy. In Chicago, Coach takes Kate to a restaurant they used to go to when she was little. Coach senses that something is wrong with Kate and she finally tells him about Mickey. She says she was afraid he wouldn't love her anymore if she told him earlier. Coach is upset, but more upset that he couldn't have been there for her when she was pregnant. He is happy that she told him and wants to meet his grandson. They drive back immediately and Coach meets Mickey. He is happy to have a family again.

DAD STRIKES OUT (#63170)

The teachers' strike lasts longer than Dave expected, so he has to find another job in the meantime to hold them over. Karen and Dave are worried about finances, but do not want to worry the children. Karen says they will have to start cutting back. Cray, Sui, and Jane are in line at Corndog World one day, and they are embarrassed and surprised to find out that Dave is working there. They make fun of him. He explains to the kids that the strike has caused him to take on this job. Without Karen and Dave's knowledge, the kids decide to get extra jobs to help the family. One day, disaster strikes when the ceiling begins to leak. Cray, Neal, and Jane think they can fix it without their parent's knowing, so they send Cray up on the roof to find the problem. While on the roof, Cray causes a bigger hole by falling half way through the ceiling. Karen and Dave come in to find Cray's legs sticking through the ceiling. The kids tell Karen and Dave what is going on, and explain that they have collected money to pay the bills through part time jobs. Later, Dave tells the family that the strike is over and he will be going back to teaching. The kids apologize for making fun of Dave working at Corndog World, and for taking on more than they could handle with the ceiling. Dave also apologizes for not asking for help earlier. Both Karen and Dave were happy and proud that the kids helped.

International players in the NBA

Stojakovic was a basketball star in Yugoslavia, while Turkoglu was a star in Turkey. Vlade Divac helped them both adjust to the NBA, a transition that he had previously. Hedo Turkoglu and Peja Stojakovic tried out bowling with Ahmad. Though Turkoglu is a rookie in the NBA, he is veteran bowler, a game he played since he was 17 years old.

Player and his generosity

Smith was named as NBA Hometown Hero of the Month in recognition of his leadership in Michigan. He endowed a scholarship at his alma mater, Michigan State University. The scholarships are for students who graduated from Pershing High School, his high school, who want to attend MSU.

Ask Ahmad: What is Ray Allen's free throw ritual?

Ray Allen explains his ritual for being successful at the free throw line.

Baron Davis

Davis is known for his play but also for his trademark headband. He uses it to keep sweat out of his eyes. This is particularly important since Davis shaves his head. He has been wearing headbands since high school.

African American NBA Pioneers

Chuck Cooper was the first African American drafted by the NBA in the second round. Cooper played on the Boston Celtics. Earl Lloyd was the first African American to play a game in the NBA. There was a special half-time ceremony for Cooper at a Celtics game.

Brett tells Mary Beth that he is good friends with 'Slim Dog' who is playing at a bar later that night. Brett can get Mary Beth and her friends fake IDs so that they can go hear Slim Dog play. At the bar, Mary Beth and Brett go off to a back room to talk. They begin kissing, but he becomes too aggressive. She says no, but Brett doesn't respond. He ends up ripping her shirt. As she tries to get out, she threatens to tell but he says he will make trouble for the whole team if she says anything. Because they were at the bar illegally, Mary Beth is afraid to say anything. The next day, Julie and Christy realize something is wrong and question Mary Beth. She tells them what happened, but makes them promise not to tell anyone. She feels stupid for going in a back room with a guy she didn't really know that well. Julie and Christy think she should tell the police and Coach, but Mary Beth refuses. Later at the game, the girls see Brett with another girl. Mary Beth realizes that she has to stop Brett, so she decides to tell Coach and the police. Before she talks to them though, Michael and Antonio find out and they confront Brett. Coach breaks them up and handles it himself. The cops arrest Brett. Coach is proud of Mary Beth for turning Brett in. She knew that she had to stop him, and keeping quiet would only help Brett.

Sui feels a little awkward about this, so she talks with the gang. She is worried that Randy is coming on to her and that she might have done something to lead him on. Marci assures Sui that Randy was just congratulating her on a job well done. After Sui leaves, Neal tells the kids that he heard the last weather girl left because Randy got too friendly with her, but Neal didn't want to tell Sui because he is not sure if it is true. Randy suggests that Sui prepare a presentation on getting more airtime. During the conversation he makes suggestive comments. She tells Marci and Jane, but doesn't want to make a big deal out of it because she is afraid of losing her job. The next day, she stays late to work on the presentation. Randy comes in and harasses her again. He says they should talk over dinner, but Sui doesn't want to. Randy makes it clear that Sui has to do things his way if she wants to keep her job. The family suggests that Sui sue Randy, but she doesn't want to seem like a troublemaker. The next day on the air, Sui tells everyone that Randy has been pressuring her. He threatens to sue her, but she is not scared. Neal and Ben bring in the old weather girl, who Randy also harassed. #### JAMAL X (#63709)

Jamal's Uncle, Kadeem West, a professor of African American studies comes to speak at Manny High. During his lecture Kadeem discusses African American history and talks about racism. When Cassidy suggests that racism is simply a thing of the past, Kadeem reminds them of the police officer whom earlier that day was looking for a robbery suspect but only questioned the Black people in their group. Kadeem tells the kids that if they educate themselves and spread the word they can combat racism. Jamal feels this is a wake-up call and begins studying his uncle's book. Before long, Jamal starts changing. He tells Cassidy and Dawn that they should feel guilty for others' racism and he starts organizing Survival, a black-only club. Even El-Train's warnings that Jamal is taking his black-pride too seriously and turning off his friends doesn't stop Jamal from telling Chris that he doesn't understand what Jamal is going through because he is white and that they shouldn't be friends anymore. When Ms. Noble expresses concern about Jamal's club, Jamal tells her she should "check her blackness." Ms. Noble explains that excluding people only undermines their struggle for equality and that finger-pointing only leads to more racism, anger, and violence. Despite Ms. Noble's refusal to let Survival meet on school grounds because it is not open to all, Jamal continues with his plans. In an effort to understand where Jamal is coming from, Chris goes to the first meeting, but Jamal tells him to leave. Then, as he opens the meeting, Jamal admits to everyone that he went about things the wrong way. He realizes that being proud of your race does not mean separating yourself, or disliking others, but knowing who you are so you can be friends with whomever you want. Jamal then apologizes to Chris and agrees to open Survival to everyone.

In their drunkenness, Cassidy decides she wants to kiss Chris but ends up kissing Jamal instead. Chris gets jealous and kisses Dawn to get even. Al sees Chris and Dawn kissing and is furious, but he can't do anything about it because he has to throw-up. Just as a fight is about to break out, Ms. Noble and Billy enter the apartment and realize everyone is drunk, so they decide to spend the night to make sure everyone is safe. The whole gang wakes up suffering from hangovers and questioning their friendships. Unfortunately, they have no time to recover because they need to go to the talk show. Even the talk show host realizes something is wrong and while on air everyone admits what they did and that it was a bad idea. They also agree that they must take responsibility for their actions and not blame the alcohol. Even though they are able to salvage their friendships, it is clear that everyone learned a lesson they won't soon forget.

[Educational Theme: Drinking may seem like fun at first, but when you drink too much, some sort of problem always occurs. Before you think about getting drunk, realize that you have to also be prepared to deal with the consequences and accept responsibility for the problems that could occur.]

HIGH SCHOOL CONFIDENTIAL (#63226)

Mary Beth and Christy are doing a video project for class with Julie's camera. They are asking everyone to talk about the most important thing they learned in high school. In telling the story, we visit previous episodes. Julie's most important lesson was stand up for what you believe in, remembering the sit-in she and the others staged. Michael learned how to manage his anger, which enabled him to be a better player. 'Never give up on your dreams' was Antonio's lesson. He also reflected on the hard and good times in his relationship with Christy. As they finish Antonio's interview, Silk comes running in for help because Eugene got his hand stuck in a tuba. While they try to free Eugene, he reflects on the mistake he has made and admits that he is not perfect. Silk remembers his own brush with violence and how guns don't solve problems. They continue to remember how Coach has helped them many times in the past. Coach comes along and frees Eugene from the tuba. The gang all agrees that having good friends who can help you get through good times and bad is an important part of growing up.

[Educational Theme: When you have good friends who really care about you, they help you through the hard times and life's dilemmas. They are also there to share your joy when things go right.]

THE TWO YEAR ITCH (#63116)

The kids have a surprise party for Jane at the Warehouse to celebrate being with the family for two years. While they are talking, a young girl steals Sui's purse and gets away. Everyone thinks Sui should call the police, but Jane wonders if maybe the girl has to steal for food. During dinner, Jane leaves the house to look for the girl. She finds her in an alley and brings her home to the garage. Jane sneaks food to Jesse, the thief, and talks to her about getting off of the street. Jesse doesn't feel like she can trust Jane at first, but as time goes by, she relents. Meanwhile, the family thinks Jane has been acting suspicious and the kids are convinced Jane is on drugs. They decide to do an intervention, during which Jane returns Sui's purse and tells them that she has been helping the girl that stole it. The kids figure out that Jesse is in the garage and go to confront her. Jesse feels betrayed by Jane and runs away, leaving Jane to explain that being betrayed is why runaways stay on the streets and suspicious of help. Now Jesse will continue to flounder. Neal, and Ben join Jane in her efforts to find and help Jesse. After Jane figures out where Jesse is hiding she leaves a message that the door is open if she wants to get off the street. Jesse comes to the Warehouse and trusts Jane and her family and wants help getting off the street.

PIER PRESSURE (#63712)

The gang goes to Chris' dad's beach house in the Hamptons for the weekend. Against his better judgment, Chris lets Al, Dawn, and Cassidy talk him into taking his dad's yacht out without the captain. Before long the yacht becomes stuck on a sandbar, without gas or power. Afraid for their lives and suffering from hunger and thirst, they all start blaming each other for getting stranded. After envisioning their funerals and fighting for a while they realize that they are all to blame. Meanwhile, Jamal and El-Train are busy "entertaining" some ladies and ignore Chris' call for help. But when they realize that their friends have not made it home, Jamal and El-Train get the coast guard to help them rescue their friends.

HOMECOMING (#63952)

Homecoming is around the corner and the students are setting up dates. Dylan says he doesn't really want to go and Jermaine gets tricked into going with Naomi. One day, Ashley runs into Dylan's brother, Mike and she agrees to tag along with him to the dance. When Dylan finds out, he blows up and confronts his brother for trying to steal his friend. The next day, at the homecoming game, Ashley tries to talk to Dylan to explain that she only said yes because Dylan didn't ask her, but Dylan doesn't listen. When Mike gets hit hard in the homecoming game and is taken to the hospital, Mr. Pena is able to confront Dylan about his anger. It seems that Dylan feels his brother always gets what he wants and when Ashley decided to go to the dance with Mike, Dylan felt overshadowed one more time. Ashley overhears the conversation and reassures Dylan she would have gone with him if he had asked. After all he is her friend. When Jermaine and Naomi show up to see about Mike, Mr. Pena takes them all to the homecoming dance.

SUBWAY CONFESSIONS (#63703)

The gang leaves the school premises to get concert tickets, thinking they'll make it back before class starts, but end up coming back three hours late. They all think their real excuse is unbelievable and agree to lie to Noble, but are unable to get their story straight before Noble asks them to explain individually. Dawn and Cassidy tell her that while on the subway they befriended a homeless woman and spent three hours giving her a beauty makeover. Al and El-Train tell her that they spent the time on the subway saving a homeless woman from Russian spies. Chris and Jamal admit that they left campus for the tickets and then explain that they helped a clown give birth on the subway. Noble is furious that they left school and that they all lied to her. As punishment, she gives them one month of detention, making them miss the concert. While they serve their detention a policewoman comes to school to reveal that she was working undercover as the homeless woman on the subway and confirms that the gang helped a clown deliver a baby. Noble believes the policewoman but refuses to apologize for punishing them. She explains that she's responsible for students during school hours and they could have gotten her in a lot of trouble. Besides, she reminds them, they all lied and there's no excuse for that. The gang agrees that they made a mistake to leave the campus and then lie about what happened.

GRADUATION ON THREE (#63224)

The end of the year is fast approaching and graduation is right around the corner. The basketball team honors Julie by retiring her jersey. Christy is supposed to be planning a graduation party, as well as speaking as Class Valedictorian; however, Christy has not prepared for either one. The girls have a slumber party and prepare the food for the party. While they are working, they reminisce about the good times they have had in high school. Christy professes that she does not want to be Valedictorian or speak at graduation because she doesn't have much to say. Julie and Mary Beth try to convince her otherwise, but Christy won't budge. At the party, the gang gets together to do a toast, but Christy runs off crying. She doesn't understand how everyone can be so happy when everything is ending. Julie and Mary Beth talk to her and they all end up crying because nothing will ever be the same. At graduation, Christy does speak. In her speech, she thanks her friends for helping her realize that even though change is scary, she will always have her parents, friends, and Deering in her heart. Later, Coach says goodbye to everyone and wishes them well. In a teary goodbye, Julie closes the show with her last "go Deering."

KODAK MOMENT (#63120)

Chris gets a surprise kiss from a girl on the street. It turns out that she is a princess from England who was running from a photographer. She ran away so quickly that she left her purse behind. Chris goes to her hotel to return the purse, and she asks him to take her out for American food. Chris takes her to the Diner for chili cheese fries and burgers. During dinner, Jessica, the princess, explains to Chris that being a princess deprives her of privacy, therefore she cherishes it. The next night, Chris is going to pick her up for a date, but he sees Jessica kissing another guy. Chris goes back to the diner, dejected and tells Al and El Train what happened. Al and El Train have been looking for an opportunity to take a picture of Jessica to sell to the tabloids and they convince Chris that now is a good time for revenge. Chris is reluctant at first, but is really hurt by Jessica kissing someone else. He gives Al and El Train Jessica's room number. The next day at school, Jessica comes to see what happened to Chris. She explains that the boy was her ex-boyfriend that she doesn't want to see anymore. She and Chris set up another date; however, now Chris has to stop Al and El Train. Chris gets to the hotel room early, but Jessica is still in her robe. He tries to get her out, but El Train comes in dressed as a room service waiter. As soon as Jessica comes out of the bathroom, Al jumps out from the cart and begins snapping pictures. Chris throws him out, but Jessica knows that Al is Chris' friend and throws him out for not respecting her privacy. Later that night, Chris manages to get the film from Al. Chris takes the roll of film back to Jessica to prove that he respects her privacy. When he arrives at the hotel, Jessica is leaving to go back to England. She forgives Chris for everything and they promise to remain friends.

Ashley has agreed to help Dylan study for his history test. She comes up with a scheme to help him remember the facts, he connects the information he needs to learn with sports facts he already knows. At test time, Dylan still doesn't do well because reading, comprehending and answering the questions is too overwhelming. He avoids Ashley and everyone else because he knows he failed the test. Jermaine tries to cheer him up, but Dylan is questioning what he is going to do in life. Jermaine says, "we can't all be good at everything" and suggests Dylan only cares because Ashley is involved with his studies. Later Jermaine tells Ashley to leave Dylan alone because she cannot change Dylan to be different than who he already is. Ashley points out that she is only trying to help Dylan do better in class. Mike tries to talk to Dylan also, but Dylan blows him off. Dylan says this is the best he can do. Ashley and Mike are worried about Dylan so they talk to Mr. Pena. Dylan sees them talking and gets mad. The next day, Dylan's father explains that he wants more than carpentry for his son. Dylan has to find what he likes to do. Mr. Pena brings a psychologist to meet with Dylan and his parents. They want to test Dylan for dyslexia. This may explain Dylan's problems in school. After the testing, Dylan apologizes to Ashley and thanks her for going to Mr. Pena with Mike. At least now he has a possible explanation for why he has problems showing his knowledge through schoolwork.

Chris and Jamal have a small competition going with rival DJs at Washington Prep. They exchange silly pranks back and forth until Ms. Noble catches Chris and Jamal stealing the Washington Prep's radio call numbers. She warns them that they let the competition get out of control, so they are forced off of the air. When Malik and Adam come to claim their sign, they say they are going to do an on-air funeral for Chris and Jamal's show. The boys can't let this happen so they break into Adam and Malik's station to mess things up. They end up cutting a wire, which shorts out their amp. The next day, Ms. Noble asks the boys whether they know anything about the break-in, and they say no. Chris and Jamal feel badly about the damage they have done, so they buy another amp and sneak back to the station to replace it. A security guard catches them in the act, and notifies the principal of Washington Prep and Ms. Noble of the problem. Ms. Noble is truly disappointed in the boys. They apologize saying they know they did something wrong, but were afraid to come forward, so they were trying to fix it. As a punishment, Adam and Malik are allowed to do their show from the Manny High station, until their station is completely fixed.

Jason Terry Player and his reading habit

Terry has lots of superstitions and one is reading a book before a game. Terry and his favorite author are both from Seattle.

NBA Players Read NBA Reading Month

Curry's grandmother enrolled him in summer reading clubs as a child, while Amaechi's mother organized family field trips to the bookstore. The Blazers, the Pacers and Vince Carter read to children in different locations.

George Evans 30-year-old College Star

Evans won three-time conference player of the year awards, but he is more unique because he is a 30-year-old college basketball player. He will graduate with a degree in communications and hope to work in video production after he plays in the NBA.

Grant Hill Player and the importance of fair play

Hill may not be playing for the Magic this season because of an injury but this has not kept him from community service activities. He visited the Rolling Hills Elementary School to celebrate National Sportsmanship Day. Hill talked to the children about the importance of fair play on and off the court. Hill also communicated with children via an interactive on-line webcast. This day is celebrated in more than 2,000 schools across the US and in more 100 countries.

NBC NETWORK NON-BROADCAST EFFORTS

January – March 2001

THE MORE YOU KNOW WEBSITE

The More You Know's website (www.nbc.com/tmyk) features actual video clips from the award-winning public service announcements, referral information for the organizations referenced in the PSAs, a general campaign overview, and educational materials produced in connection with NBC programming. The site also includes a "feature of the month" page which addresses select TMYK topics, a list of the campaign's most recent accolades, and actionable video of the latest TMYK events.

TNBC WEBSITE

To supplement and enhance the educational value of the network's "Teen NBC" programs, NBC has a Web site (www.tnbconline.com) specifically dedicated to teens. This site was recently re-launched with a new design. The goals of this site are first, to create a platform for the teen community where opportunities for self-expressions become the core of the interactive experience; second to build these communities wherever possible around the themes and ideas generated within the TNBC shows themselves; and third, to provide online resources of information and guidance around the issues that most effect teens' lives.

Features of the Web site include information on the upcoming episodes of each of the TNBC shows, as well as information about the shows and their cast members. A free TNBC email service is provided to teens to foster a sense of community and communication. There is a prominent link to the NBCi.com "Teen Zone" which includes polls, message boards and features on subjects such as relationships, family, advice columns, dating, drugs and alcohol, entertainment and other teen sites on the Web. There are chat rooms for teens, hosted by Talk City, and there are links to Web page building and hosting services.

2000-2001 First Run Broadcast Show Descriptions and Schedule 2nd Quarter

December 30, 2000 thru March 17, 2001

Rainforest Eagle (2173)

December 30-31, 2000

While in Barro Colorado, a dense forested island in Panama, Jack goes in search of a Harpy, the world's largest eagle. The island is home to the famed Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute. Later, at the Summit Zoo Jack helps care for an injured anteater. Daughter Kathaleen checks out the rainforest from a zip line.

Isla Tigre (2174)

January 6-7, 2001

Jack gets a first hand look at the work of a Florida State University professor providing a "half-way house" on an island in the Panama Canal for human-imprinted primates being re-introduced to the wild. On Isla Tigre, Jack observes Howler, Capuchin, Spider and Tamarin monkeys. Daughter Kathaleen spends time in an Embera Indian village.

Panama Canal, Jungle Paradise (2175)

January 13-14, 2001

Jack and his daughter Kathaleen share a boating adventure exploring the animal rich rainforest surrounding the Panama Canal, including Howler and Capuchin monkeys and the deadly Fer de Lance snake. Father and daughter also explore an abandoned military outpost in the jungle.

Canopy Tower (2176)

January 20-21, 2001

An old Air Force radar station converted into a small lodge provides Jack with a perfect platform for bird watching in Panama's Soberania National Park. Among the many tropical birds Jack spots from high atop Canopy Tower is the beautiful Blue Cotinga. Daughter Kathaleen takes a tour through Old Panama.

Corcovado, Lost in Time (2177)

January 27-28, 2001

In Costa Rica, Jack treks through the pristine Corcovado National Park in search of the elusive jaguar. On a night hike, Jack comes face-to-face with the tapir, a rainforest relative of the rhinoceros. While on a rafting adventure, Jack and his daughter Kathaleen challenge the raging rapids of an environmental treasure, the Pacuare River.

Diving into Dominica (2179)

February 3-4, 2001

The watery world of Dominica, one of the Caribbean's most pristine islands, provides Jack and his daughter Kathaleen with an unforgettable island adventure. From an ocean encounter with Sperm whales to a lazy paddle up the Layou River, father and daughter plunge right into the Nature Island. Also, Kathaleen makes her first open water dive.

Belugas and Bears (2180)

February 10-11, 2001

Jack and his daughter Kathaleen travel to northern Canada for encounters with Beluga whales and Polar bears. At Churchill, the Hanna's find Hudson Bay much to their liking, but nothing tops the small town's hottest summer pastime: face-to-face viewing of friendly belugas. Polar Bears, recently off the winter ice flows are also around, but Jack and Kathaleen discover they are much harder to spot.

Winnipeg Wonders (2181)

February 17-18, 2001

Jack and his daughter Kathaleen travel to Winnipeg to experience the animals of Canada. At Oak Hammock Marsh, Jack visits a restored natural habitat that functions as a major stop for migratory birds. At the Assiniboine Zoo, Jack and Kathaleen get a close-up look at native animals including bears, a Wolverine and an Arctic Fox. Later, at a wildlife rehab center, father and daughter release two owls.

In the Blind (2182)

February 24-25, 2001

In Manitoba, Canada Jack and his daughter Kathaleen set out in search of native wildlife. Jack is determined to find the hard to find Hog Nose snake in the rolling dunes of Spirit Sands, while Kathaleen watches Black Bear behavior at Riding Mountain. Kathaleen also goes on a bicycle safari with a moose expert.

Glacier Bay Adventure (2183)

March 3-4, 2001

Jack and his daughter Kathaleen depart Juneau, Alaska aboard the Wilderness Explorer in search of the endless natural beauty of Glacier Bay. Among their encounters: bears, humpback whales and glaciers. Jack also explores an old gold mine.

Galapagos: Plazas and North Seymour Islands (2184)

March 10-11, 2001

Jack and his daughter Kathaleen begin their exploration of the famed Galapagos Islands off the Pacific coast of South America. On the islands of Plazas and North Seymour, the Hanna's encounter iguanas, sea lions and bird rookeries teeming with blue-footed Boobies and Frigates.

Galapagos: Fernandina Island (2185)

March 17-18, 2001

Six hundred miles due west of Ecuador in the Pacific Ocean, Jack and his daughter Kathaleen continue their adventures on the Galapagos Islands. On Fernandina, Jacks investigates the Galapagos penguin population while Kathaleen swims with the world's only marine iguanas.

BROADCAST WEEK: 1/1/01

California Abalone Bust, Pennsylvania Wildlife Videos, New Mexico Ridgenose Rattlesnake

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: The California Fish & Game officers go undercover in an effort to protect one of our treasures of the sea- the abalone. The commercial harvest of abalone is illegal in California but because of their high black market value, poachers are plentiful. See how a 6-month undercover investigation stops an illegal abalone operation that was taking thousands of abalone from the coast.

Segment Three: In Pennsylvania, meet a man with an incredible eye for wildlife. He doesn't carry a badge or gun, but a camera in his work with the Pennsylvania Game Commission. With the lens he captures aspects of our natural resources and produces entertaining and educational videos for the public. He helps enforcement officers record undercover surveillance and aide biologists in monitoring wildlife. Go behind the scenes and see how Hal Korber protects and serves with his camera.

Segment Four: In a New Mexico mountain range, capturing and studying one ridgenose rattlesnake can take up to 33 man hours. We know their venom can be deadly and that they're highly sought after by poachers looking to make big money on the black market. Follow a team of wardens and biologists as they begin an extensive study on the elusive ridgenose rattlesnake- they need our protection.

Segment Five: Josh Bryant closes the show and offers instruction on how to learn more about the stories viewed in this episode.

Colorado Lynx/Indiana Paddlefish/Wildlife Immobilization

Segment One:

Program Introduction.

Segment Two:

In a joint effort between British Columbia and the Colorado Division of Wildlife, lynx returns to the forests along the Continental Divide. But will they just survive or thrive? Colorado biologists hope these incredible snowshoe animals will be the start of a new population.

Segment Three:

Paddlefish any one? — it's not a water sport. It's a fish that can be found in all the great rivers in the U.S. In Indiana, the paddlefish is in jeopardy due to illegal fishing operations. Poachers are selling paddlefish eggs to caviar companies for big bucks. Go undercover with special agents when they bust the paddlefish ring.

Segment Four:

To safely immobilize a polar bear, a mountain lion or even an elephant with a blowgun or a high-powered rifle takes know how. In Wyoming, one of the world's top experts on animal immobilization conducts an intense two-day training course for game wardens and biologists on the proper use of animal immobilization techniques used in many research and relocation efforts.

GAME WARDEN WILDLIFE JOURNAL EPISODE OUTLINE SHOW 229

BROADCAST WEEK 1/22/01

Manitoba Polar Bears/Virginia Chincoteague Ponies/Kansas City Oil Pits

Segment One:

Program Introduction.

Segment Two:

When the ice melts on the Hudson Bay in Canada, it's polar bear alert time in a tourist town called Churchill, Manitoba. Every year, hundreds of polar bears sniff their way through the town looking for food while townspeople gear up for their arrival. To keep peace between man and bear, experienced conservation officers patrol day and night capturing, tagging and safely housekeeping the bears over or around the town allowing them to continue along their migration path.

Segment Three:

In Virginia, the famous Chincoteagues ponies have been roaming a 700-acre island since the 17th century. In mid-July, thousands of spectators come from all over to witness the annual swimming of the Chincoteague ponies. It takes volunteer fire fighters known as "salt water cowboys" and game wardens to round up and steer the ponies through the channel and ready the horses for auction. For every foal or yearling sold, dollars go directly to the cause, raising more than $160,000 a year.

Segment Four:

In Kansas, hundreds of birds are being saved every year from contaminated oil thanks to the efforts of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service. From the sky, specialists identify and collect evidence of oil pit violations, then contact the oil producers for immediate clean up and are ultimately safeguarding the area for all wildlife.

Saving Mistreated Elephants / Protecting Celebrants

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: Known as the Tuli Elephants, this band of South African pachyderms has been mistreated at human hands: shackled, mutilated and starved. But conservation officers and a caring public intervene to rescue the elephants.

Segment Three: Now, the problem is finding some place to keep the rescued elephants. The answer is a special park with the space and staff to take care of the Tulis.

Segment Four: New York Harbor is the site of the 224th Fourth of July celebration. With all the fireworks, people and boats on hand, how do the three agencies charged with maintaining public safety get the job done? We'll patrol with the officers assigned to the task.

Segment Five: Josh Bryant closes the show and offers instruction on how to learn more about the stories viewed in this episode.

EPISODE OUTLINE
SHOW 354

BROADCAST WEEK: 2/19/01

Saving the rhino / restoring the animals and land after a forest fire

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: Uneasy lies the head of any animal that has parts of great interest to humans. A prime example is the rhino, whose horn is considered in some parts of the world to have great medicinal value. This has created a market demand that has driven poachers to slay these animals in tragic numbers. It would be a shame if the third largest land animal in the world were lost to us. But there are serious efforts to preserve the rhino. One of these is taking place in South Africa, where conservation officers use special methods to monitor rhinos and keep dangerous predators away.

Segment Three: When a catastrophic forest fire occurs, there are bound to be a lot of burned and injured animals in the area and a considerable number of orphans. What do you do with these survivors? We'll go to New Mexico where a wildlife veterinarian, working with New Mexico Game & Fish, takes care of burned animals and orphans. The burns are treated and the patients are housed until they are healed. In the case of orphans, they are kept and cared for until they are mature enough to fend for themselves in the wild.

Segment Four: The land can survive forest fires. It always has. But when there's a fire, the earth is left vulnerable to weather. And if we don't do something, we can have serious problems that are worse than the fire themselves. So, we must take steps to see that the soil, once held in place by trees and brush, doesn't wash away by rain or blow away by wind.

SHOW 355

BROADCAST WEEK: 2/26/01

Nuisance bear / Karst Topography / Outdoor Women

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: By feeding bears in state or national parks, visitors create a problem, the nuisance bear. Encouraged by this treatment, bears press ever closer to human habitation, until they constitute a menace. In Colorado, one nuisance bear finally had to be dealt with by conservation officers.

Segment Three: Karst topography is formed when water percolates through limestone, shaping chambers and passageways. In Puerto Rico the karst holds unique endemic species and is a significant source of the island's water supply.

Segment Four: Traditionally, a woman who becomes an outdoors person, learned the skills of the outdoors from her father or husband. But, in today's world, many men aren't outdoorsmen and many women are single or even single mothers. In New Mexico, the Becoming an Outdoors Woman program provides the instruction to let women enjoy the great outdoors.

Segment Five: Host Josh Bryant recaps the program and gives instructions to viewers in how to obtain details on the content.

Relocating Wildebeest/Promoting Shade Coffee/ Protecting Mule Deer

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: In South Africa, Dr. Raath is a veterinarian with a mission, to pass on conservation ideals to the next generation. In this story, he is relocating the odd-looking antelope so vital to the African ecosystem, the wildebeest.

Segment Three: The natural environment for the coffee bean plant is the forest shade. But in Puerto Rico, a huge mistake was made some time ago, to clear-cut the forests and grow coffee in sunlight. See how the USFWS is righting that wrong.

Segment Four: Mule deer, sometimes called "jumping deer" range throughout much of the American West, but populations are declining. In Wyoming, conservation officers are fighting to reverse this trend.

Seizing illegal wildlife parts/ Going undercover/ Treating Injuries

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: The international trafficking of wild animal parts is an enormous industry. Fortunately, U.S. wildlife inspectors are at our air and seaports to seize illegal shipments.

Segment Three: Agents risk their lives and go undercover to nab the criminals involved in this worldwide trafficking.

Segment Four: What happens when a hunter or hiker is out in the woods and becomes injured? What should be done to stabilize the condition before professional help can be found? Find out now.

Segment Five: Josh Bryant closes the show and offers instruction on how to learn more about the stories viewed in this episode.

GAME WARDEN WILDLIFE JOURNAL EPISODE OUTLINE

SHOW #348

BROADCAST WEEK: 3/19/01

Oryx, High-Risk Driving, Elk Feeding

Segment One: Host Josh Bryant introduces the program.

Segment Two: Because of a massive introduction program, there are now more Kalahari Desert Oryx in the U.S. than in Africa. This hardy, fast-breeding antelope has overflowed into White Sands Monument National Park where laws preclude non-indigenous species. So we follow the officers as they capture and relocate the animals, no mean feat when the oryx weighs 500 pounds and is armed with dangerous horns.

Segment Three: In emergency situations, law enforcement officers are sometimes forced to pursue lawbreakers. When that pursuit takes place in vehicles, officers must be well trained to ensure their safety and the safety of the public. In Iowa, Conservation Officers with the Department of Natural Resources are given a training course with a different twist. This school features exercises in driving at night and on rough gravel roads, situations that are most common in enforcing game laws.

Segment Four: While the elk is one of our most magnificent game animals, it's a large creature with survival needs that often conflict with human expansion. In Wyoming, there's a problem that occurs in winter. When the elk come down from the mountains in search of food, often there's so much snow in the valley that the elk can't get to the grass below. The solution for the game warden is to bring in bales of hay on large sleds, drawn by draft horses. And so the elk are fed. And while the officers are at it, they vaccinate the animals against brucellosis, a disease that can also be transferred from the elk to domestic cattle.

Segment Five: Josh Bryant closes the show and offers instruction on how to learn more about the stories viewed in this episode.
